

Background-Dental Fluorosis

Severe Dental Fluorosis

“All enamel surfaces are affected and hypoplasia is so severe that the general form of the tooth may be affected. The major diagnostic sign of this classification is discrete or confluent pitting. Brown stains are wide and teeth often present a corroded-like appearance.”